

SET IT OFF

Written by Jubby-Anne Dalapo

Sometimes the light beyond is slightly out of reach

And the goal seems far away

But your passion that's blazing deep within

Urges you to move not to stay

Move

Set off and just be free

Show off what you can be

Release all of your dreams and inspirations

Move

Set off and just be free

Show off what you can be

It's your individuality

FIRE

Written by Olivia Reid

Sometimes I feel like I've lost the day
Like I'm overcome with some kind of haze
Stuck in a place with no escape
The world has turned a shade of grey

In the midst of sorrow and the pain
We can find our strength in another day
If I look at what's in front of me
I'll find a heart that burns bright for all to see

In a world that's overrun
There's a fight yet to be won

Burning up just like fire
I feel it in my bones
Rising up higher higher
Oh no out of control
Burning up just like fire
I feel it in my bones
Rising up higher higher
Oh no out of control
Burning and fierce it surrounds
But I will not give up my ground this time

I open my eyes but I'm still asleep
Through the window the sunrise creeps
Threw away the keys to my own cage
The world has turned a shade of grey

Every waking breath I have a choice to make
I can run away or I can face the day Before I know what today will bring

WORDS LOST ON THE WIND

by Shekinah Sarfi

Yesterday it is gone
But the pain
Is still present
Folded pictures on the windowsill
So I won't forget it

I can't drown the feeling
Cause I forget how to swim
So I wonder
When will I begin to feel the same again

Is anybody out there?
Is anyone listening?
Can anyone hear me calling?
I've yelled until my lungs gave out
I've given up everything
But I still sound like words lost on the wind

If I can't tell what's real
By what I feel
Is there a difference?
These white walls are staring back at me
I barely recognize me
I'm fading

I'm breathing but I'm not alive
Maybe if I just close my eyes
I'll be more than a whisper in the void

IN HEAVEN

by Daisy Pia Marie

Fight

Fight for what you believe

Fight for what you can't see

Promise me that you'll hold on

Be strong

Know

Know that I'll be right here

Even when I am not near

Promise me you'll sing my song

I belong

In Heaven (x4)

Why

Why does the pain have to stay

The fact that you have gone away

Still I am looking for answers with eyes closed

Clear

I hear you breathing against my ear

Through the darkness and my fears

I need you here to help me be strong

And wait for me to come home

Oh hold on

I'll fight

Fight for what we believe

Fight for what I can't see

I promise that I will be strong

I'll hold on

THE RUNAWAYS

by Nifemi Adebayo

Writings on the stalls
Everything's so pointless
People walk around
With knives in their pockets
Down the hall
Everyone goes
But one is left all alone
My friends are here
People wrapped in plastic
So look me in the eyes
And tell me if I'm worth it

I wanna go up
I wanna go up
To the sky
Where I put all my lies
And there I'll find
The test of time

Mirror, mirror on the wall
Some escape others fall
Look at the map
Don't look back
They only miss you when you're gone
You may not know the lyrics to the song
But when it comes to it I hope you sing along

We are the Runaways...

CHANGE

By Willi and Genoveve Whiston

The trees stand bare in the warm August air
Black bark bears witness to the flames

The flowers, they're growing all the while full knowin'

It'll be awhile before the forest looks the same

But we'll press on Come together, join in the song

'Cause there's strength in waiting Together we're making a change
Yeah, there's gonna be change

The smoke clears the Skies birds are flying high
Small paws make prints in the coals

The river keeps running singing of what's coming
It's time to return, wandering souls
